

DOES YOUR SCHOOL PARTICIPATE IN THE “FREDDIE” CURRICULUM? IF NOT, ASK WHY!

The “Freddie” curriculum is a comprehensive fire safety curriculum developed to teach children in kindergarten through fifth grades important fire prevention and survival skills. The series consists of three curricula, one for kindergarten and first grades, one for second and third grades, and another for fourth and fifth grades. Thanks to our partners, the South Carolina Office of Insurance Services, Clemson Extension, and the fire service, we are reaching over 500 schools representing about 285,000 students. Participating students are learning positive fire safety behaviors that will extend into adulthood. Fire safety behaviors learned through the “Freddie” curriculum have already been attributed to saving lives. Not only do these lessons benefit now, but behaviors learned will ultimately have a favorable long range impact on the fire problem in South Carolina.

By now, most all children in our state have been exposed to the “Freddie” fire safety curriculum. If your school isn’t listed, it’s time to ask WHY? Please let us know so that we can work together to provide those students with the same life saving knowledge that others are receiving.
